The unification of two prestigious colleges

On 30 November 2011, a historic vote took place for The College of Nursing and Royal College of Nursing, Australia (RCNA). At concurrent Extraordinary General Meetings held in separate states, an overwhelmingly positive vote was made by each membership, for the two colleges to unify from 1 July 2012.

As a result of this unification, the membership fees for the Australian College of Nursing will come into effect from July 2012 as follows:

Date	Fellow	Member	Affiliate	Student
from 1 July 2012	$320.00	$295.00	$200.00	$120.00*

This change will result in a pro-rata fee being levied from 1 December 2011 on all College membership fees (see below). Members will be charged the existing College of Nursing fees until the end of June 2011 and will be charged the unified College's fees for the remainder of the Membership year (to their anniversary date). The amount you will need to pay is dependent on when you joined the College. Please see your updated fees in the table below. Renewals and new Members joining from 1 July 2012 will be charged the Australian College of Nursing fees (above).
